OKLAHOMA NATIONAL GUARD
BILL PASSES HOUSE
FINALLY.

SEVERAL ALTERATIONS IN THE MEASURE

Friends Say Efficiency of Act Has Been Hampered—Fish and Game Bill Passes.

Guthrie, Okla. April 22.—The house bill creating a state national guard passed the senate finally today after a series of alterations which, its friends say, will lower the law somewhat in efficiency.

The brigade organization was reduced to one regiment. The senate would not consent to a regiment in what was formerly Indian Territory in addition to the existing organization of one regiment and including all arms of the service on the Oklahoma side.

The $30,000 appropriation provided by the house was reduced by eliminating the assistant adjutant general, the stenographer and the storekeeper whose annual salaries aggregated $3,000. The adjutant general was also reduced to $1,800 per year.

The guard is to go into camp for 10 days each year for which an appropriation of $8,125 is made. By a vote of 19 to 18 an amendment by Senator Brownlee providing that the United States army canteen regulations should be applied to all Oklahoma guard encampments was defeated.

Drunkenness of officers or men however is not to be tolerated according to a provision by Senator Blair which was adopted. An officer or enlisted man who is under the influence of liquor while on duty while at encampments or going to or returning from duty is declared to be guilty of boisterous conduct and is to be summarily removed from the service.

Any superior officer who fails to so punish an inferior is also to be removed.

Building and Loan Companies.
The senate recommended the passage of a compromise bill regulating building and loan companies. Local companies are permitted to enlarge their capital to $2,000,000 instead of $1,000,000 as the present law restricts.

Stock may also be issued upon expiration. The compromise bill does not contemplate foreign companies shall domesticate before being permitted to do business here.

Final passage was also obtained upon Senator Keys' fish and game bill.

Friends of doctors had their inning in the house today in a spirited debate over the Johnson bill from the senate establishing a state board of health. The senate bill composed the board of a physician irrespective of a school of medicine and the presidents of the state university and the Agricultural and Mechanical college.

A majority of the house committee increased the board to five members, four doctors and one farmer, actually engaged in farming. In naming the doctors the allopath, eclectic, homeopath any physio-medical schools of medicine were recognized.

Adjournment Defeated.

The resolution by Mr. Vandeventer to adjourn the legislature for two weeks from next Saturday afternoon failed this morning by a vote of 76 to 24. This action removes all opportunity for a recess as desired and means that the legislature will remain continuously in session until May 24, which is the last day allowed by the constitution.

New House Bills.

The new house bills today were by Messrs. Jap and Stone for building a state oil refinery, by Messrs. Wilson and Ashby, taxing peddlers from $10 to $100 annually, and exempting ex-Federal and ex-Confederate soldiers, and by Mr. Ellis, locating near Enid a secondary school for teaching agriculture and appropriating $50,000 therefor.

The anti-gambling bill will soon be sent for the governor's signature, as the house today closed action on the measure by adopting the conference committee's report. The vote was 70 to 30.

The report eliminated the amendment making the paying of bridge whist progressive euchre and other parlor games for prizes a misdemeanor and in violation of the anti-gambling law.

Both branches of the legislature were in receipt of telegrams from Congressman Scott Ferris announcing the passage in the house of the bill removing restrictions and advising that the negro and the Federal court jurisdiction clauses were eliminated.

Reading of the telegrams drew from the members loud applause. The senate voted its thanks to the Oklahoma delegation in congress for the work done.

PRETTY GIRL CARRIES BIG SIX-SHOOTER.

Is Empowered to Make Arrests, Serve Papers and She Knows How to Shoot.

Muskogee, Okla. April 22.—Beulah Reynolds, deputy United States marshal in the eastern district of Oklahoma, that is the way it reads on the pay-roll and the petite handsome girl that answers to the name is a real deputy marshal under Grant Victor with authority to carry a six-shooter, a privilege which she uses.

Miss Reynolds was employed as a stenographer but she insisted on taking the same oath that any other deputy marshal takes, and is subject to the same rules and duties. So far as known she is the only woman actually in service as a deputy United States marshal. She has authority to make arrests, lands serve paper and even go into the field on special duty.

When she took the oath she was asked if she would make an arrest or take part in a real fight if it came to a showdown. I am not a quitter, she said. The next morning when the marshal came down he found lying on the desk of his new deputy a pearl handled six-shooter of excellent make handsomely engraved and every chamber loaded. The young woman has been carrying the gun when she thought she needed it and she knows how to use it.

RESTRICTIONS ON MILLIONS OF ACRES OFF.

National House Passes Bill Adding Much to State's Wealth.

Washington, April 22.—As a result of the persistent work of the entire Oklahoma delegation the house today passed a bill removing restrictions from land owners of the Five Civilized Tribes without a dissenting vote. This will place 9,000,000 acres of land on the market and add incalculably to the value and taxable wealth of the state. Members of congress from Oklahoma are much elated over the outcome of their fight.

The passage of the bill scores the most unique record during the present session of congress. The bill was agreed upon by the Oklahoma delegation and the interior department and many conferences and was reported unanimously for passage by the house Indian affairs committee. Several speeches were made favoring the bill but not one against it. The persons who will be benefited by the legislation are those who have less than one-half Indian blood, also intermarried white persons and freedmen who have by previous acts of congress, been provided with allotments.

Brook Resents Reflections by Davis
in Military Bill Speech.

Guthrie, Okla. April 22.—Senator Eck E. Brook of Muskogee caused a sensation in the senate today by attempting an attack upon Senator Clarence Davis of Bristow, Brook charging that Davis in a speech on the Dyer military bill made remarks casting personal reflections on Brook. The attack was fore-told by a sergeant of arms who started Brook before he reached the bus man from Bristow.

The presence in the senate chamber of General Blair, Chief of the staff, multiplied provoked Senator Hatchett to an exhorting speech against lobbying. Hatchett opposed nearly every feature of the bill which however was advanced to a third reading.

Nearly every item of appropriation in the bill was reduced the adjutant general's salary being clipped to $1,800 and the maintenance amount to $15,000 per year.

Blair and Brook led the fight of the Indian Territory side for a second militia regiment. Blair proposed an amendment providing for six companies on each side of the state. This was defeated after Gen. Canton had stated that four companies had been mustered out in Oklahoma and that the quota would be filled from the Indian Territory side. The brigade plan was defeated and the bill provides for only one regiment. The adjutant general is allowed no assistants.

MUSKOGEE TURNS DOWN $100,000 APPROPRIATION

Bill Pending Provides for Public Buildings in Several Cities of Oklahoma.

Washington, April 22.—Because Muskogee is not willing to accept a hundred thousand dollar public building it is unlikely she will ever get any at this session of congress, and that Tulsa and Enid will each be provided with one or with legislation looking to the erection of one in the near future.

The Muskogee people were told they could get an appropriation in the omnibus public building bill this year authorizing a building to cost $100,000, but they replied theirs was a half million building town and that they would prefer to wait rather than to have a building which would soon be far behind the town in point of capacity and appearance.

Representative Vandeventer thinks that he can induce the committee on public buildings and grounds to allow $70,000 of Muskogee's offered $100,000 for a building at Tulsa and $25,000 for one at Bartlesville. It was ascertained today that the bill provides for the erection of public buildings in Oklahoma as follows: Oklahoma City, $100,000; Enid, $100,000; for sites approximately $10,000 each, Chickasha, Perry and possibly Shawnee.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Late Session Held and Considerable Business Transacted.

Council met in adjourned session last night all aldermen present. First thing done was to adopt rules of procedure which was taken from the Oklahoma City rules with a few amendments. The council then began under the rules and had only gotten about half way down the line when it adjourned to meet again Friday night

Several committees reported the principal one being the water committee on the city well which was in substance that the well should be put up in shape and the committee was instructed to have same done. Considerable discussion was had in regard to handling the street sprinkler and fire wagon and Aldermen Shirley Evans and Haynes were instructed to investigate the matter and report at the next meeting the best plans to pursue

City Clerk Jones was instructed to give notices to all water customers in arrears and Commissioner Markham was instructed to cut off all water payments who were not paying their water rent. There is between ten and five hundred dollars due the city from this source

City Attorney Holt was instructed to proceed against all parties owing occupation taxes. It would not surprise us if Police Judge Powers had plenty to do in the next few days. A proposition was made by D. H. Hester to rent the city the present building for office the next six months, but no action was taken in the matter

An ordinance defining the duties of police judge was passed. Other matters were to have come up but on account of the business of the hour the council decided to adjourn until Friday night at which time the election of night watchmen and sexton for the cemetery will come up and no doubt some action will be taken

The council seems to be getting down to business and some good will be done to the city before then terms at hand

RESTRICTIONS BILL READY FOR SIGNING

Both Houses of Congress Pass Measure Affecting 7,000,000 Acres Here

Washington, May 22.—Without objection the house today adopted the report of the conference committee on the bill providing for the removal of restrictions from lands of the Five Civilized Tribes. It was adopted by the senate Wednesday. It now goes to the president and, according to a statement recently accorded to him, will receive his approval.

The bill removes restrictions from all lands of Indians of less than half blood, all surplus lands of Indians up to and including three-quarter blood and from lands of intermarried citizens and freedmen. The restrictions may be removed from lands belonging to Indians of more than three-quarter blood and up to full-blood upon the proper showing to the secretary of interior and by his action.

Seven million acres of land are affected. All remaining lands of enrolled Indian citizens shall not become subject to sale until after April 26, 1931, except that the secretary of the interior, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, may continue to remove restrictions as heretofore provided.

All lands from which restrictions are removed become subject to taxation and the death of an owner removes restrictions upon the alienation of the deceased's land, subject to the jurisdiction of the state probate court under which also all lands of Indian minors are placed, except that the secretary of the interior may investigate the action of guardians and curators. An appropriation of $30,000 is made out of which the secretary is to pay the costs incident to suits that may be necessary to protect the Indians, $10,000 of which is to be expended in the western district of the state.

All lands other than homesteads from which restrictions have been removed may be leased for oil, gas or other mineral purposes for a period of five years and no leases on lands from which restrictions are to be removed shall be interfered with except when an agreement is reached between the Indian and the lessee after which the lease may be terminated by the secretary. The right of eminent domain is not interfered with. Coal and asphalt lands may be exchanged for other segregated lands equal in area.

All general and school warrants of the Chickasaw nation, executed prior to April 26, 1906, and found valid by the secretary, are to be paid. All records pertaining to the Five Tribes are to be transferred to the Union Agency at Muskogee and $15,000 is appropriated out of which the secretary shall furnish each county with a list of the lands affected by this act. All royalties accrued or that may hereafter accrue on mineral leases shall be paid into the union agency.

ROFF SCHOOL EXERCISES

Appropriate Program Through the Week Conducted by Educators and Roff's Young Gentlemen and Gentlemen.

The closing exercises of the Roff Public School was begun at the Methodist church last Friday night. The program represented the Grammar Grade department, and Prof. M. Moore, Supt. of the Maria schools, delivered a very interesting address. Other features of the evening's entertainment consisted of the beautiful song, "Oklahoma," which was superbly rendered by the young ladies of the class, and several nice selections by the Roff Orchestra. Sunday, at the Christian church, Rev. J. E. Ditch, pastor of the M. E. church preached the commencement sermon to the graduating class and a large and appreciative audience. Monday night, again at the Methodist church, the final exercises were had. The graduating class delivered their final addresses. Each one of the class had prepared, and delivered well their address, Miss Anna Conder delivered the valedictory, which was especially fine. After the addresses of the class Prof. F. L. Norton in a well chosen address delivered to each of the class their diplomas. Supt. Pierce being present was called on and responded in a short address which was appreciated by all. The Roff orchestra which furnished music for the occasion, was complimented very highly by the speaker and his compliment was cheered to the echo by the large and appreciative audience. Upon the whole the closing exercises of the school were enjoyed heartily by all and Prof. Downing and his able corps of assistants have the profound thanks of our town and community for the able manner in which they have conducted the school the past year.

tion, so persistently promoted by the Francis Wigwag and diplomatic endorsement by the Roff Eagle does not seem to have matured to such an interesting degree in the mind of Mr. Lee himself for it apparently reliable reports are at all correct that estimable Sasakwa citizen has not concluded to call himself Sem-nole candidate and to rotate right on in the office of floterial representative is the successor of the Hon. Edgar S. Rathiff whose term will have been a little over the regular legislative term when this season of legislative assembly is passed.

Mr. Rathiff has not stated so far as the News know whether he will be a candidate to succeed himself.
Properly he is now giving all his attention to legislative duties.
The present floterial representative from Pontotoc and Seminole counties has established a record in the legislative body of this state of a man in the public service could justly feel proud as a record of enduring man but one of indefatigable energy and devotion to the honest service of the people than Edgar Rathiff there is not one of the 150 legislators in Guthrie who can prove such record of faithful service accompanied by such timidity of display and self advertisement.

Last year when the people from all over the county were casting about for suitable material for the position of floterial representative there was not even a ripple of objection when a delegation of Stonehill citizens made known that of all receptive or prospective candidates, the name of Edgar S. Rathiff was just previously a citizen of their community would appeal to the people of that district of Pontotoc county more than any other Mr. Rathiff is the urgent appeal of democrats all over the two counties with the assurance of no opposition even though a poor man under contract to turn in a winsome Texas woman at an early date and devoted to his nodes, though substantial practice he had achieved in this district offered his services to the people of Semnole and Pontotoc counties all the same.
Would it not be unusual to urge rotation in office the substitution of some other man in the event he should desire to succeed himself for one other term?

The record will show that Edgar
S. Rathiff sacrificed a fair law practice to enter the public service that he has made an infinitely less money as a public servant than he usually acquired in the conduct of his private business and that he has diligently and capably served his constituency.

It would indeed be without precedent should a man without opposition acquire an office from the people the acceptance of which involved much financial sacrifice and even before he had returned home from the first legislative session with a record of well doing and exceptional service there had been inaugurated a campaign of opposition.

Our dear Roff Eagle, is at the principle of rotation in office that is inspiring a lengthy editorial from you in receptive support of a man with whom you are not acquainted and opposing a man whose record both private and public is notably pure? If you would rotate Mr. Ratliff out of office the principle emulation of which is only honor after only a few months service thereby veritably disapproving and repudiating his service would you not also think it well to invoke the referendum on these county officers who have already held their office longer and gotten vastly more money for their labors?

If Mr. Rathiff should be a candidate for re-election the Ada News and the majority of the democratic papers of Semnole county and too with the approbation of a great majority of their constituencies will extend him conscientious support.

Here below is what the Roff Eagle says:
The Francis Wigwag has opened up the campaign for Floater from Pontotoc and Semnole counties and has espoused the cause of John A.
Lee of Semnole county. Who has announced for the office. A democratic club has been organized at Francis, and it has also pledged Mr.
Lee its support.

The Eagle is a strong believer in rotation in office. And working by that rule this will be Sem-nole time to name the Floater from this district. We do not know Mr.
Lee personally but have heard him spoken of in very high terms and if the democrats of his county are willing to endorse him and upon investigation we think he is qualified to represent the two counties in the legislature we shall be glad to give him our hearty support. We have no fight to make on the present incumbent. So far as we know he has made a fairly good representative. He hasn't set the world on fire by any great display of statesmanship or extraordinary brilliancy. Neither has he fathered any of the freak measures introduced in the present legislature which latter we think should be a recommendation for him.
We do not know if he will stand for re-election or not. But in case he does or any other man from Pontotoc county should make the race other things being equal believing as we do in the justness of rotation we shall feel it our duty to support the man from Semnole.

Removal of Restrictions.

The bill for the removal of restriction on Indian lands has passed both the house and senate and is now only awaiting the signature of the president to become a law. No doubt the president will sign it. He has already expressed his willingness to do so. The people of the Indian Territory side of the state are especially rejoicing as it puts the Indian in shape to see a portion of his land and with the money improve the other brings new people to our country and in every way helps its citizenship. Much praise is due our representatives in both houses of congress and especially Hon. Chas. D. Carter representative from this district. This summer and fall will see a great influx to this country and as a rule it will be people with more or less capital who will buy lands build good houses and barns and help to further develop the country.

This morning 11:50 freight train Nos. 329 and 39 met on the main line at Ford's switch three miles north of Ada but no one was injured and no serious damage done except that the pilots of both engines were demolished. The entire crews of both trains jumped and took to the woods. One of the trains had orders to take the siding when the other came unexpectedly around the curve and the crash came. It is very fortunate that the trains were running slow or the wreck might have been serious. Both trains proceeded on to their destination both without cow catchers.

swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby, and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pains. When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well.

Mrs E Rash, residing at 206 West Second street, Oklahoma City, Okla., says: "I suffered very much from my kidneys failing to perform their functions properly. My back was very lame and at times I was laid up with it for days. I was weighed down with languor and depression and suffered from annoying irregularities of the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and procured them. They soon relieved the aching and lameness in my back and rendered the secretions normal. I have every confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills. I cheerfully give them my endorsement."

APPROPRIATION BILL. TEMPORARILY BLOCKED. Eight-Hour Bill Necessary to Carry Out Provision of the Constitution.

Guthrie, Ok., May 22.—Appropriations to the extent of $1,382,382 were suspended in midair for a time today the result of a ruling by Speaker Murray holding that the spirit of the constitution in prohibiting the passage of revenue bills the last five days of a legislative session also included appropriation measures. It was the intention of the constitution framers, he stated, to prevent rushing through at the last hour healthy sums of money under the inspiration of the closing, and the fact it was omitted in letter confirmed his belief that it was an error in the enrollment of the organic law of the state.

A point against the ruling, made by Mr. Thilston of Nowata, was not sustained. Later in the day, however, the speaker relieved the situation by reversing his decision, for the reason there would be no other opportunity to get the appropriations through the legislature.

"I will not attempt to establish the precedent," said the speaker, in recalling the ruling, "because of the absolute necessity of making certain appropriations. I believe it will be the duty of the next legislature to provide for a constitutional amendment that will prevent appropriation bills being passed during the five last days of a session."

Had not the appropriation bills been permitted to become laws, a special session of the legislature would have been a certainty, for the measure involved covered sums for maintenance of the state educational institutions and some of the state departments. Among the appropriation were: Foraker Orphan home, $40,000; the State University, $197,000; school for the deaf, $40,000; the Agricultural and Mechanical College, $10,000; Corporation Commission, $34,000; State Banking department, $20,000; the Edmond, Alva and Weatherford normal schools, $183,000; Langston (colored) university $50,000. Among the appropriations finally disposed of in the senate today were $5,000 for the board of arbitration, factory inspectors and superintendents of the free employment bureaus, provided for in the bill creating the State department of labor; $40,000 for the state orphan home, $2,500 for the state board of health, $2,250 for the state historical society, $107,000 for the maintenance of the state university at Norman, and $12,352 for the salaries, mileage and per diem of the county officers in the recent state election.

Printing Bill Passed.

The house passed the Hawkins bill appropriating $16,097.74 to pay for printing the county election tickets and other supplies used in the last state election. Other appropriation bills pending in the house from the senate are those awarding $80,000 for Langston (colored) university, $220,000 for the A. and M. college, $200,000 for the state university, $85,000 for the normal at Edmond and $190,000 for the Weatherford normal. In each case the appropriation covers additional buildings. For Langston and the state university, however, they are to replace the structures recently destroyed by fire. Passage of the bills for additional normal buildings was opposed in the senate in view of the improbability of additional normal schools being given to the eastern side of the state. These bills have been reported from the house committee without recommendation, save in the instance of the state university, which is recommended for passage.

The senate disposed of the bill by Representative Durant appropriating $25,000 for the transportation of prisoners to the Lansing penitentiary, by substituting Senator Redwine's bill appropriating $50,000 to bring all state convicts to Oklahoma for work on the public roads and in getting out material for the new state buildings. A provision was made, however for detention of juvenile offenders in the Kansas state reformatory at Hutchinson. Gov. Haskell sent a message to both houses of the legislature today, urging action on pending labor bills. He commended consideration for Senator Franklin's bill preventing the importation of labor to the state under misrepresentation prohibiting the importation of armed guards without consent of the civil authorities, and declared labor unions to be legal.

Eight-Hour Bill.

The eight-hour bill was referred to as being necessary to carry out a provision of the constitution, which provision, the governor explained, was being grossly abused in numerous localities where public work is being carried on. The anti-child labor bill was also wanted as was the bill establishing the first Monday of September each year as labor day.

The full crew bill was essential, he believed, to the conduct of good business safety of the traveling public. He also asked consideration of the senate bill preventing the railroad interests from retaliating upon the citizen shop men for the enforcement of laws by the state corporation commission. This bill is by Senator Redwine requiring that repairs to engines and cars operated wholly within the state to be made in the state. Final passage was obtained upon the bill designating the labor day as requested in the governor's message.

There were also passed Mr. Cope's bill permitting the supreme court to punish for contempt by a jury trial. Questions of the contempt are to be submitted by the clerk of the supreme court to a district court which judge thereof before a jury. The election of presidential electors every four years was also provided for in response to numerous messages from the governor's office. The pending primary law requires that the electors be chosen by primary as are state officers. Mr. Branson's bill appropriating $75,000 and providing for the creation of special district judges to be appointed by the governor whenever he considers them necessary; Senator Agee's bill authorizing cities to condemn and purchase cemeteries owned by companies or individuals; Mr. Durant's railroad stock and bond law (being a copy of the Texas law on that subject); the senate bill permitting the leasing of school land for mineral purposes, and Mr. Norville's bill permitting counties to buy bridges were passed finally by the house.

Mr. McCalla's bill preventing the removal of cases from the state to the federal courts, recently recalled from the governor's office, was amended and passed again by the house today.

The new provision is that nothing in the act shall be construed to confer the rights of eminent domain upon corporations chartered or incorporated under the laws of any other state territory. The bill is said to be in condition to stand the test of the courts, and particularly obviate the decision under which the Kentucky and Missouri laws were held to be unconstitutional. Senator Landrum's bill providing for placing a bust of Sequoyah, designer of the Cherokee alphabet, in Statuary Hall in Washington, was indefinitely postponed.

The senate passed finally by vote of 34 to 6 the resolution submitting to a vote of the people the proposition of new location for the future state capital and after considerable debate passed finally the bill by Senator Goulding submitting the location of the permanent capital to a vote of the people at the coming fall election.

It is said the bill can not pass the house. It provides, however, that towns desiring the state capital shall be voted upon at the general election in 1908, and the two highest to make the race over in the general election of 1910. It is a condition that the town receiving a majority of the votes in the second race shall place at the state's disposal nine sections of land not to cost the state more than $60 per acre. Other measures passed by the senate were Senator Holman's bill authorizing the issuance of bonds by boards of education and the Representative Japps bill requiring that when called upon by railroads to build their right of way fences they be paid.

The governor gave notice today of having signed the bills for uniform marriages, and making it a felony for a minister of the gospel or other officer to knowingly perform a marriage ceremony between whites and blacks (and the same penalty for whites and blacks to marry); the bill appropriating $10,000 for West Oklahoma storm sufferers; creating state national guard; establishing code for the state department of labor; permitting cities of 2,000 population or more to adopt the commission form of government; and legalizing the incorporation of Guyton, Texas county.

The Vanishing Fleets

BY ROY NORTON.

And then, even as they sought positions of security, the great radio-plane felt a sudden, sharp concussion of impact as the top of the fighting mast struck its bottom plate, crumpled like a match, and went crashing downward, a debris of twisted, useless steel. Even within the chamber there penetrated to them the terrified shrieks and despairing cries of the men of Japan.

Another quick smashing blow almost threw those at the dynamo from their feet, more cries were heard without, and then, for the small part of a second there was silence and immobility. Even the storm of fire from the other ships had ceased.

Norma alone seemed endowed with power of movement, and sprang quickly from lever to lever and switch to switch, issuing her battle cry. "The dynamo! The dynamo!" she called. "Full speed, and stand clear for fear of accident! I've thrown the magnet currents! Quick! all your power before others can train a gun on us! Her voice was sharp and decisive, and her words snapped like lashes, driving them to action. "Steady, steady!"

With almost the instantaneousness of its stop, the radio-plane shivered and throbbed with increased energy. The dynamo hummed and roared, the Norma quivered like a race horse under a cruel whip, then steadied itself, seemed to gather its forces together, gave one mighty lift, and began to ascend. The frightened cries from without subsided in stupefaction. The fighting admiral with clenched fists was running the length of the radio-plane, staring through the lower ports, and hoarsely voicing his exultation, his eyes flaming with the joy of victory.

Out on the sluggish waves which had now changed to a coldly gleaming gray the other vessels of the Japanese fleet witnessed the beginnings of catastrophe. They had seen this incredibly monstrous thing drop from ether upon their flagship, crumple its upper works like paper, attach itself to the turrets, and then with phenomenal power actually lift from the ocean 20,000 tons of steel—a floating fortress believed but an hour ago to be invincible—and bear it away. Even as they watched they saw this strange god which had grasped the pride of Japan in his clutch deliberately shaping his flight higher and higher into the great void of the heavens and passing out of their world.

Of what use were guns against these strange visitants, whose only human mark was the flag of the despised enemy? In hopeless screams of terror their sirens awoke the echoes with weird, despairing wails, and their engines under full speed sent the screws lashing through the water in a last desperate effort to escape by flight. And while their prowls tore the waves the superstitious sailors took their disaster as an omen of heavenly agony of prayer; but every chance was denied them, and even their trust in speed to evade seizure was ineffectual.

Even as the Ito, held fast by the Norma, was becoming a speck against the disk of the morning sky, another of those strange creatures made a scarcely less abrupt descent upon the Kashima. Stocks and masts went down with a crash as had those others. The great wingless terror poked her up into the air before her engines could be stopped, and, with her screw beating the atmosphere like the fluttering fins of a fish captured by a marauding eagle, sailed off with her into the blue above.

Once more they tried the effect of gunnery, when the Katort was threatened; but it was futile, and, reading their doom, they waited their turn. It was not long in coming; for now by twos and threes they were torn from the ocean and lifted aloft. The colliers were the last to succumb, and their crews, realizing that the hulls alone would come in contact with the implacable demons above, ran screaming below decks to continue their supplications to the dead gods who had deserted them.

From the thick glass of his port the admiral looked down upon his conquered totem and watched the precision with which his orders were being obeyed. Each time a victim was seized he shouted: "There's done her work!" or "Good boy, Seven! You've got him!" and so on enumerating each success.

Some movement on the deck of the Ito close at hand arrested his attention. His brows came together again in a fierce scowl. "Stand by the magnet levers, Miss Norma," he commanded, "because of these fellows below mean to show the least resistance whatever, we'll drop 'em!"

She had been standing serenely in her hood, her head thrown back, reveling in the glories of triumph. When the fate of the battle had hung upon her performance, and when her own life was threatened, she had thrown herself body and soul into the fray, wide eyed, unresistant, and without a tremor; but now, at the thought of being the executioner of perhaps a thousand men, her face blanched, her limbs trembled, and her hands forgot their task and clasped together in imploration. She was the woman again, ready to plead for the lives of those she had conquered.

"My God! You wouldn't do that, would you?" she said. "The old gladiator of the sea turned upon her ferociously. 'Do it! Do it!' I'd drop them to hell as quick as I would to the bottom of the Pacific if they show fight!" he responded. "We're out here to teach a lesson, and they deserve all that's coming to 'em! War is no child's game," he concluded grimly. "And the first ship that wants trouble goes down like a thunder-bolt."

As if to emphasize his remark, he sprang to the signal box and issued this sanguinary order to every radio-plane in the fleet, while Norma, faint and sick at heart, shut her teeth and with a look of inexpressible pain turned back to her levers.

But she was spared this dreadful work. The Japanese officers and men had learned the absolute futility of resistance, and doubted the efficacy of appeal! Their one hope for life now rested in the humanity and leniency of those who held them in thrall.

It took no long chain of reasoning to conclude that an enemy who could pluck them from the seas and without visible effort lift them more than a mile high could as readily release his hold and send them to destruction with meteoric speed. Even were it possible to destroy those monsters which clutched them, to do so would be self-annihilation.

They were ignored, cut off from those above, and divorced from the waters beneath as if they were creatures of no importance, to be treated like mere troublesome insects, exterminated or spared as their captors' whim might dictate. The glory of an easy conquest in the Philippines, the boasts which had followed the subjugation of Hawaii, the pomp and circumstance of previous conquests—all were obliterated, all erased from the scroll of valorous deeds by an action which had lasted less than an hour. And now, like beaten legionaries chained to the victor's car, they were being carried away toward the rising sun and an unknown fate.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Eagle's Flight.

No stranger spectacle was ever outlined against the sky than that of the fate-laden morning, when at a height of more than three miles above the sea the emperor's ships were borne away. A child full of life, energy and vivacity, clutched in the inflexible talons of a merciless eagle, and hurried into the empyrean, would have been no more helpless. The sun's rays were now painting the surface of a far-reaching, unattended ocean, on whose waves no sail caught the breeze, and across whose depths sailed no squadrons. The day of its abandonment was at hand, and the time not distant when seafaring was to become merely secondary.

In the profound solitude of the upper air the radio-planes swung majestically in a wide circle, and then like a flock of geese in homeward flight formed a long line which in stately procession directed its course to the east.

The Japanese knew by the faces staring at them from the bellies of the monsters which had gathered them in that they were in the grasp of the enemy, and impotent, although throughout that trying day no word was addressed to them. Once, from their lofty planes of transit, they saw through their glasses a dim outline on the far southern horizon whose faint blue haze held Honolulu, designated as a stopping place, but which they were never to reach—designed to be a port for naught but phantom ships—a port of dreams.

To them their progress through the air was at a terrifying speed, and the wind of flight sweeping in a gale across across their decks drove them to shelter; but they did not know that the machines above them were working at slow strength, in order that their coming to the shores of the American continent might be unwatched and unheeded. The hours slipped away, until below them the shadows lengthened and deepened and the waves were no longer seen. Up in their aerial path the dusk was falling, when simultaneously they came to a halt and hung motionless in midair. Officers and men hurried to the decks to learn what this change might portend, and as they did so they discovered that the silent monsters were clustered in what seemed perilous proximity to the craft holding their redoubtable flagship, the Ito. On the bridge of the latter appeared the admiral of the fleet, Kamigawa, his impassive face showing nothing to his followers of the strain under which he had labored during those long hours of captivity. Like his fellow officers, he looked at the assemblage, anxious to know the cause of the abrupt stop, and then aloft to the engines of victory, from each of which there whirled and crackled in the evening breeze the stars and stripes.

The grinding noise of metal sliding over metal attracted his attention, and almost before it had ceased a man clad in the blue uniform of the United States navy leaned out of a huge port, holding himself by his hand, and frowning down at the men upon the Ito's bridge.

"Good evening, Kamigawa!" a voice hailed with "uff" resonance, and he recognized Bevins, who had been an instructor in the naval academy of the nation which had presented him with post-graduate instruction, and which he had come to assault.

"Good evening, admiral," he responded in excellent English, mentally thankful that he had offered no greater resistance to this famous bulwark of the sea; but with no faint of shame clauding his mind in thus being recalled to the fact that he had attempted war upon a which summed the voice above in a tone of cold courtesy, "to request that you at once go through the formality of surrendering your entire fleet, and signal the other vessels from your flagship that in behalf of yourself and men you accept parole under the usual provision that neither you nor any of your men will bear arms against the United States during the remainder of this war."

"But I can't do that!" Kamigawa protested in a tone of bitterness. "Very well," came the curt answer. "I shall at once drop you, and I can assure you that nothing will give me greater joy."

The blue figure with its flapping coat tails swung back toward the open port with an air of decision, and the Japanese admiral knew that this was no time for the practice of deception and evasion. The man above was not one to be trifled with, and could be depended upon to keep his word unflinchingly, even though it might cost the lives of every prisoner taken. He hastened to relinquish his last hold upon his vessels and men.

"Wait a minute, admiral!" he hastened to call. "You can at least give me time to ask them their wishes?"

"You are not to ask them!" was the sharp reply from above. "You are to tell them that they can save their lives by giving their parole. There is no alternative. I'm not asking favors, but simply giving you a chance."

"But—"

"That's all! My country doesn't have to beg favors from all nations combined. You have seen damned good evidence of that! It's no favor to me if you give your parole. You can have 20 minutes!"

The port above clanged shut, and Kamigawa, his cup of bitterness filled to the brim, reluctantly signaled the other members of the fleet, who seemed less bent than he upon delay. As the darkness settled more closely round them and joined the blanket of shadows below, there floated from every captive ship the plain white flag betokening complete surrender. The sun banner—the emblem of Japan—had disappeared from the seas. She was no longer a naval power, and her brief encroachment, advancement, and season of truculence was at an end.

As the last cloth of white fluttered out, the port above the Ito again opened, and a voice called down: "Thank you," and then continued: "I'm sorry for you, Kamigawa, but it can't be helped. It's the fortune of war. Now we are going to bring your cruiser Yakumo alongside you and the Kashima, and we want you to have all those aboard transfer at once. We can't carry her any more."

He did not explain to the enemy that radio-plane Seventeen, which had been struck by a shell, feared that the heavy burden of transporting the Yakumo would prove too much for a higher rate of speed. Steadily and without apparent effort the three radio-planes came together, until the cruiser rubbed sides with the two battleships. Here were no rolling swells and turbulent waves to prevent such a maneuver. In the quietude of that aerial tryal, ruffled only by the breeze of the night, the ponderous masses of steel were brought into contact as gently as if held by giant hands. Grouped around them were other dread machines, which suddenly, to facilitate the transfer, threw the brilliant beams of a score of searchlights upon the decks of the doomed Yakumo, their rays illuminating and overtopping the upper works of the Ito and the Kashima, between which she was held motionlessly.

The great guns of the three war vessels stared open mouthed at each other. Their turrets loomed darkly, and out of the farther rays of light, and in the white glare the faces of the men standing upon the decks took on a ghastly hue. With muttered conversation and alert obedience to orders the men of the Yakumo stepped from their own deck to those beside their, dividing themselves into equal parts. It was hard to realize in that sight of light, surrounded by the black shadows of the night, where all was still and solitary, that they were three miles above the surface of a tossing sea, and that to step out into the gloom would be to step out of life. It was a ghastly interlude in a world of unreality. Reluctantly and sorrowfully they took their places on the battle ships and turned to bid farewell to the beautiful cruiser which had been their home for so many nights. They were all clear now, and not a living thing was left upon her.

Once more the dynamo of the radio-planes increased their speed. Slowly they drew apart, the one clasping the cruiser alone remaining motionless. The searchlights, like steady eyes of the night, still stared at the cruiser whose every gun and every bolt was brought out clear and distinct in the radiance. During the day her crew had cast off her broken port hamper, which in any event would have been useless, and now, swept clean by the wind, she seemed illumined for her death. With the parting rub of her armored sides against the Ito and the Kashima she had bade a last good-by to her sister ships, and now seemed the center of a tragedy of the night, waiting for her execution. From the deck of every surrendered ship silent and sorrowing men looked upon her as if fascinated, and something of pity crept into the eyes which watched her from the ports of that conquering fleet of the air. They, too, were sailors.

She was held thus for a moment, and the softened hearts of the conquerors gave to her a last honor. The port of Seventeen opened, a rope ladder fell from its metal doorway, and down it passed a gray-haired man, who had once commanded and loved such a cruiser as was she. It was Brockton. The captives on the decks of the captive ships strained forward, wondering what it could mean. The blue-clad figure walked the length of the Yakumo, Dodgin & Fitter. Third nerves, with that "no ambition" feeling that is commonly felt in spring or early summer, can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. One will absolutely note a changed feeling within 48 hours after beginning to take the Restorative. The bowels get sluggish in the winter-time, the circulation often slows up, the kidneys are inactive, and even the heart in many cases grows decidedly weaker. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is recognized everywhere as a genuine tonic to these vital organs. It builds up and strengthens the worn-out weakened nerves; it sharpens the failing appetite, and universally aids digestion. It always quickly brings renewed strength, life, vigor and ambition. Try it and be convinced. Sold by G. M. Ramsey.
